

MISSING - PRESUMED SQUASHED

Barbara Stacey

(c) 1996 Barbara Stacey

1. "Find your glass- es Aar- on!", Mrs Stac- ey yelled in pain. "You bag came in, was tipped right out: the pile was fair- ly high. Out rea- lly need them on, you know. It's def- 'nite- ly a shame. Try came two squashed ba- na- nas, lots of mon- ey and a pie. "I look- ing in your bag be- cause that's just where they might be. If still can't find those glass- es", Aar- on moaned and stamped his feet. "Just this test is- n't done you know at a lunch you won't be free!" ALL: "If keep on look- ing kid, there's not a chance that we'll be beat!" ALL: "Just this test is- n't done you know at lunch you won't be free!" 2. The 3. A keep on look- ing kid, there's not a chance that we'll be beat!"

com- pass and a mag- net with some steel- wool stick- ing on, chewed up notes a- bout the Nat. Fit camp a raff- le book or two, the rul- er, six- teen rubb- ers and a pen- cil case half gone. The School News look- ing fair- ly damp, back cop- ies of it too! Old class was quite a- stound- ed. They had nev- er seen such junk; one small home- work sheets and white- out jars (they're banned with- in our school), a mot- or, four tired batt- 'ries and a head- set fell out, CLUNK! ALL: One small plast- ic wat- er pis- tol, full, glue in a mush- y pool. ALL: A mot- or, four tired batt- 'ries and a head- set fell out, CLUNK! 3. 4. 5. Two plast- ic wat- er pis- tol, full, glue in a mush-y pool.

